

Tax Control Framework

Are you 'in control' of your tax risk management?

Stakeholders of organisations in the Netherlands, including the tax authorities, increasingly expect your organisation to systematically manage tax risks and provide a transparent view of your tax position.

Dutch tax legislation knows many and complex regulations that your organisation may have to deal with. How do you know whether your organisation is adhering to the rules correctly? And where are you at risk?

Risk management

In order to map out the management of Dutch fiscal legislation and tax risks for your organisation, Grant Thornton has developed the 'Tax Control Framework' (TCF).

Based on various sets of questions, which your employees fill in periodically, a good overview emerges of the insight your organisation has into Dutch legislation and the management of tax risks that these rules bring with them.

Most important tax areas

The questions delve into the management of fiscal regulations in the most important tax areas that you are involved in. Corporate tax, VAT and wage tax, for example.
